Lets get that quiz out of the way!

You will need to create correct lewis dot diagrams for each of the three questions on today's quiz. Again, I am using a "First Try" quiz and a "REPEATER". The quizzes are the same. There are two reasons why I am doing this. One is to set the personal bar a bit higher for you, in that a successful first try is the best possible goal. the repeater is there to ensure that you have the opportunity to get it in the long run. Remember, I only record your BEST ATTEMPT. From my end it is much easier for me to deal with the repeaters if I know that they are repeaters. Hence the double quiz.

When you are done the quiz, some possible things:

I have received a few pdf of work. This will prove to be a very useful thing to do. It is a very good way for me to problem solve a question that you might have and eventually, I hope to be able to obtain work submissions using a pdf. I would everyone to try to figure out this technical piece. It is new to me and I will investigate for myself. I will share anything that learn at my end. Interesting that this situation will have benefits in that you will be much more proficient at various method of digital communication. So far, I have information for a good apple app only. Scanner Pro in the app and her is a possible link:

I hope that you are all talking to each other. I do not wish to mediate a chat group, nor do I wish to constrain you to particular platforms. You young people know what works best. You are all good people and I have no concerns about the level of appropriate. That being said, it would be good if the entire class is aware of such a group. If there exists such a group and there are missing class members, I would be willing to reach out on your behalf to make sure then are included. Would it be possible to pick someone such as "REID LOCKING" to manage this?

Finally. It is the weekend. Rest is good. On Monday, we will be starting with the next chunk in molecular architecture. I plan to update the website by the end of the day, complete with colour coding as to what we are doing on Monday. I would suggest rest this weekend, however, it never hurts to have a clear idea of the next step. Just in case! I will be adding another video today or tomorrow.

You should complete the practice quiz from yesterday if you have not already done so. It will help you make sure you know how to fill out the form:

I am available for questions all day.

All the best and Stay Safe.

Mr. Schlenker

P.S. The capitol of Ottawa is "O"! Sorry for the bad joke. I can just hear the groans!
